About Husbands.

BY JOHN Q. SAXE. "A man is in general, better pleased when he has a good din-ner upon his table than when his wife speaks Greek."—Sam

> Johnson was right. I don't agree to all The solemn dogmas of the rough old stager; But very much approve what one may call The minor morals of the "Ursa Major."

Johnson was right. Although some men adore Wisdom in woman, and with learning cram her, There isn't one in ten but thinks far more Of his own grub than of his spouse's grammar.

I know it is the greatest shame in life; But who among them, (save, perhaps, myself,) Returning hungry home, but asks his wife What beef-not books-she has upon the shelf?

Though Greek and Latin be the lady's boast, They're little valued by her loving mate; The kind of tongue that husbands relish most Is modern, builed, and served upon a plate.

Or if, as fond ambition may command, Some home-made verse the happy matron show him, What mortal spouse but from her dainty hand Would sooner see a pudding than a poem?

Young lady !-deep in love with Tom or Harry-'Tis sad to tell you such a tale as this; But here's the moral of it : Do not marry ; Or, marrying, take your lover as he is ---

A very man, with something of the brute, (Unless he prove a very sentimental noddy,) With passions strong, and appetites to boot-A thirsty soul within a hungry body !

A very man-not one of nature's clods-With human fallings, whether saint or sinner; Endowed, perhaps, with genius from the gods, But apt to take his temper from his dinner.

VARIETY.

A clergyman said in a recent sermon, that the path of rectitude had been traveled so little of late years it had completely run to grass.

Briggs has a great faculty for getting things cheap. The other day he had a beautiful set of teeth inserted for next to nothing. He kicked a dog. Don't live in hope with your arms folded; Fortune smiles on those who roll up their sleeves and put their shoulders to the wheel. If you would not have affliction visit you twice, listen at once to what it teaches. Adversity overcome is the brightest glory, and willingly undergone the greatest virtue. Sufferings are but the trials of gallant spirits. The Boston Post says that in that State, apothecaries are forbidden to sell medicine Saturday evenings, that is liable to work on Sunday. A COMMON ORNAMENT .- " Ah, Charley," said one little fellow to another, "we are going to have a cu-pola on our house." "Pooh! that's nothin'," rejoined the other, "papa's going to get a mortgage

A milkman may have a habit of stopping daily near the river, and not excite suspicion; but when we find his little boy fishing for minnows in the milkpan, we begin to have our doubts.

Charles Lamb's excuse for leaving his desk at an early hour in the afternoon was that he came to it late in the morning. Probably Lord Russell's excuse is as valid for being the last to desert the Confederate navy, to wit, that he was the first recognize. A schoolmaster recently illustrated his argument in favor of corporal punishment for children by a pleasant piece of witticism. He said that "the child once started in a course of evil conduct was like a locomotive on the wrong track-it takes the switch to A poor woman told her minister, who was collecting for a benevolent object, that she " could not give a guinea a year as the great folks did, but would give sixpence a week !" Her heart was better than her arithmetic, for out of her poverty she was giving more than the rich !

The awain who proposed marriage to a young lady and was rejected, but who was afterwards accepted on making a similar proposal to a widow, regarded the result of his first effort as a singular illustration of the truth of Scripture, since he "asked and received not, because he asked amiss."

A pleasant story is told of a rather aged lady who has recently married a young and fast man, quitting him at the station when he was going en voyage on some private affairs. After an embrace of the most loving character she put her head into the carriage and said, " Cher Charles, remember that you are married " To which he replied : " Cher Caroline, I will make a memorandum of it," and at once tied a knot in his handkerchief.

A little incident occurred in one of the schools in West Lynn, recently, says the News, which is perhaps worth relating. One of the classes were reciting, and the teacher asked a little American girl who was the first man? She answered that she did not know. The question was put to the next scholar, an Irish girl, who answered :

"Adam, sir," with apparent satisfaction, "La," says the first scholar, "you needn't feel so grand about it; he wasn't an Irishman."

Two young carpenters, named respectively Robert Brown and Thomas Jones, were very fond of drops ping into Mr. Smith's parlor, and spending an hour or two with his only daughter, Mary. One evening when Brown and Mary had discussed almost every topic, Brown suddenly, in his sweetest tones, struck out as follow: "Do you think, Mary, you could leave father and mother, this pleasant home, with all its ease and comforts, and emigrate to the Far West with a young carpenter, who has but little besides his strong hands to depend upon, and with him search out a new home, which it would be your joint duty to beautify, and make delightful and happy like this?" Dropping her head softly upon his shoulder. she whispered, "I think I could Robert." "Well," said he, there's Tom Jones, who's going to emigrate, and wants to get a wife; I'll mention it to him."

DON'T COMPLAIN .- Don't complain of your birth, your training, your employment, your hardships; never fancy you could be something if you only had a different lot or sphere assigned to you. God understands his own plans, and knows what you want better than you do. The very things that you most deprecate as fatal limitations and obstructions are probably what you most want. What you call hindrances and discouragements are probably God's opportunities, and it is nothing new that the patient should dislike his medicines, or any certain proof that they are poisons. No! a truce to all such impatience. Choke that devilish envy which gnaws at your heart because you are not in the same lot with others; bring down your soul, or rather bring it up to receive God's will, and do his word, in your lot, in your sphere, under your cloud of obscurity, against your temptations; and then you shall find that your condition is never opposed to your own good, but really consistent with it.
